SIMPLE SEARCH SCREEN

The default operator is "and." Use quotes to indicate a phrase. See the special instructions below for searching for Scripture citations. After performing a search, you may perform a second search within the results of the first search.

Sample searches:

Example 1: original sin [finds records that mention "original" AND "sin"]

Example 2: "Gospel of Thomas" [finds the EXACT PHRASE Gospel of Thomas]

Example 3: Exod 20 [finds records that contain this Scripture citation]

ADVANCED SEARCH SCREEN

To go to the advanced search, click Advanced Search under the Search button on the simple search screen. This screen gives you opportunity to specify author or title, search for Scripture citations, limit the date of publication, choose the journal, combine terms, omit words, or use exact phrases with ease. Guidelines for most fields are included. Set up your search using the fields you wish. Once you perform a search, you may perform a second search within the results of the first search.

LIMITING BY DATE

On the advanced search screen, you may limit a search by date. Use a four-digit format.

Examples:

2002 — specifies articles published in 2002

2002+ or 2002- — specifies articles published in 2002 or afterward

-2002 — specifies articles published in 2002 or before

2002-2006 — specifies articles published between 2002 and 2006 inclusive

2002, 2004, 2006 — specifies articles published in 2002 or 2004 or 2006

SEARCHING FOR SCRIPTURE PASSAGES

The simple search field and the Scripture Citation field in the advanced search allow searching for Scripture passages. In both cases you may search for a book of the Bible, a single verse, or a verse range.

Names of books of the Bible may be written out in full or abbreviated RTA style. For example, for Galatians, use << Galatians >> or << Gal >> and for Ephesians, use << Ephesians >> or << Ep >>. There does not appear to be a list of abbreviations.

Write a single verse or verse range as you normally would, making sure that you do not leave spaces between any numbers. For example, type Exod 1:5-11, not Exod 1: 5 – 11. An RTA search for Exod 1:5-11 will bring up results for Exod 1:7 as well.

To search for entire books of the Bible, use << book of _____ >> such as << book of exodus >> or use the book name with the complete range of verses, e.g. << exodus 1:1-40:38 >>. The Scripture Citation field finds nothing for the search << exodus >> although a simple search brings up some results. These results are incomplete, however, and not all are about the book of Exodus.

EXAMPLE COMPLEX SEARCH

How would you search for << (law or covenant) and (Romans or Galatians) >>? RTA does not allow the use of parentheses, but such a search is still possible using the Within Previous Results option.

Go to the Advanced Search screen. In the Scripture Citation field, type << book of rom or book of gal >>. Hit <enter>. From the results screen, click Advanced Search again and check the box that says Within Previous Results.

In the field, With at least one of the words, type << law covenant >>. Hit <enter>.

RESULTS LIST

When you perform a search, your list of results includes the author, title, and citation. Foreign language titles are followed by an English translation.

Author: Neil, Bronwen
Title: Exploring the Limits of Literal Exegesis: Augustine's Reading of Gen 1:26
Journal: Pacifica
Year: 2006
Volume: 19(2)
Abstract: Examines Augustine's understanding of the literal and figurative approaches to interpreting Scripture, using Gen 1:26 as a lens to view his changing understanding of what "literal" meant over the course of 30 years of commentaries on the book of Genesis. In his earlier commentaries, he seems to redeem the verse from the Manichaean charge of anthropomorphism by

To view a single abstract, click on an item in the results list. This takes you to the Single Search Result display where you may read the abstract. Use cursor arrows as shown in the picture on the screen to move forward and backward in the list or to select a record. Select the ones you want and click View My Selection to go to the list of abstracts you chose. From there you may delete one at a time. Print, save, or e-mail the list by clicking the appropriate link at the top of the page.

To view multiple abstracts, click Tag All at the top left of the list or click in the boxes of the individual records you wish to save. Then click View. You will go to a list of citations with abstracts where you may delete individual records. Print, save, or e-mail the list by clicking the appropriate link at the top of the page. The list you print, save, or e-mail will always include the abstracts.

CAUTION

Use of RTA is intuitive except in a few instances, such as listing date ranges or searching whole books of the Bible. See instructions for those. Some records include misspellings. These should be few, but they do exist.
