

HOW TO ACCESS THAT JOURNAL

By Debbie Hunn

Most of the journals available from the library are included in the WorldCat Journal List. It provides links to online journals and information about print journals. Use this resource if you already have a citation to a specific article and you want to know if and how you can access it. For example, use this resource if you see an article in footnote and you want to get the article. You can link to the journal list as follows.

- from the top left menu in WorldCat, pick Resources → Journals/Serials
- directly: <https://library.dts.edu/journal-lookup>

Retrieving your article is a multi-step operation. For example, suppose you want to read “The Semantic Fields of Seeing and Oral Communication in the Joseph Narrative” by Talia Sutskov in Journal of Northwest Semitic Languages, volume 33 no. 2 (2007), pages 33-50. Then you would proceed as follows.

1. Connect to the journal list. Be sure the “Journals” button is selected, not the “Articles” button.
2. Search by journal title (Journal of Northwest Semitic Languages in this case).

The screenshot shows the WorldCat search interface. At the top, there are two tabs: 'Search' and 'Browse'. Below these, there are four buttons for search criteria: 'Articles', 'eBooks', 'eBooks Citation', and 'Journals'. The 'Journals' button is selected and highlighted in dark grey. Below the buttons, there are two radio buttons for search type: 'Title' (selected) and 'ISSN'. The 'Title' search type has a text input field containing 'journal of northwest semitic languages'. Below this, there is a dropdown menu for search type, currently set to 'Starts with'. The 'ISSN' search type has an empty text input field. At the bottom, there is a checkbox labeled 'Search print holdings only' which is unchecked.

3. You will retrieve one or more options on the left. In the example below there are two options because there are two different ISSNs. The first says “in library,” meaning it will provide information about print volumes of the journal in the library. The second says “full text,” meaning it will provide information about online content. Click the title of the first, and note on the right that print coverage goes from 1971 to 2019.

4. Click the title of the second record on the left to see the options under it. In the image below we see online coverage runs from 2000 to present.

5. Each element of a list you generate on the right includes the date range of the full-text articles for the journal in that database. Check your citation to see if the article is available from the library. "The Semantic Fields of Seeing and Oral Communication in the Joseph Narrative" is in Sabinet and in the Turpin print collection. Click the journal title in the Sabinet record rather than the name of the collection.

- This will take you to the page for Journal of Northwest Semitic Languages in Sabinet. Click the link for Previous issues.

Sabinet 🛒 ☰ 🔍

Journal of Northwest Semitic Languages

About    Current issue    Previous issues    Submit a paper    Contact the Editor

JOURNAL OF
NORTHWEST SEMITIC LANGUAGES

JNSL

We publish articles dealing with linguistic, translational, literary, text-critical, historical, religious and cultural issues related to Ancient Near Eastern texts and societies, as well as articles addressing theoretical issues underlying these fields.

JNSL is an accredited South African journal publishing independently peer reviewed research articles on the Ancient Near East. As part of the peer review policy all contributions are refereed before publication by scholars

- Click the decade of the year you want and drill down to the correct volume and issue, issue two in this case.

		2020s	2010s	2000s
2009	2008	2007	2006	2005	2004	2003